

Mr. & Mrs. Robert and Christine Muise

Christine and Robert grew up in Methuen, Massachusetts. They began dating in high school, graduating together in 1983. Following high school, Chris received her B.S. in Nursing from Salem State College (Salem, MA) while Rob received an A.B. in Economics from the College of the Holy Cross (Worcester, MA).

They were married in 1987 and started their new married life together in Quantico, Virginia, where Rob attended The Basic School as a newly commissioned Marine Corps officer. After The Basic School, they moved to Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, where Rob, now serving as an infantry officer, experienced many overseas deployments, including nine months in the Persian Gulf during Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm.

After serving seven years as an infantry officer, Rob and Chris moved to Indiana for Rob to attend Notre Dame Law School. They then moved back to Camp Lejeune for Rob to serve three more years in the Marine Corps as a judge advocate.

Rob resigned his commission in 2000, and after eleven moves and thirteen years in the Marine Corps, they settled in Michigan.

Rob is the co-founder and senior counsel of the American Freedom Law Center, a national, public interest law firm that focuses on promoting and defending Judeo-Christian values, religious liberty, and the right to life. They have been blessed with twelve children and seven grandchildren (so far!). Chris homeschools the children through high school.
